Incident Short Description	Traffic Controller experiences back pain whilst performing manual labour tasks
-----------------------------------	--

What Happened

A Traffic Controller (TC) was removing the chicane from centre of site when they picked up a stack of 4 cones and felt a slight pinch in their lower back. The TC set the cones down and the pain went away, they then proceeded to pick up the rest of the chicane. The TC returned to their vehicle to drive to the other end of site. When the TC got to the other side of the site the pain in back was much worse.

The TC reported the incident to a supervisor and manager, ceased manual labour tasks and arranged a driver for the trip home from site.

A formal ICAM lite investigation has commenced. Once completed, the lessons learnt will be communicated/shared through a final Grey Banner Alert as soon as practicable.
